

Ecliptek adds OemsCart to Growing Roster of Automated Data Download Recipients

OemsCart Users Can Now View Factory Direct Information on Over 2,000,000 Frequency Control Part Numbers

July 21, 2014

Bangalore and Costa Mesa, CA – OemsCart.com, an electronic component information aggregator based in India, now offers its users the ability to locate over 2,000,000 different Ecliptek crystal and oscillator part numbers. Ecliptek's Data Download automatically sends electronic files containing accurate part numbers, descriptions, parametric data, and factory stock availability directly to OemsCart on a daily basis.

"Ecliptek is very excited to include OemsCart as our latest Data Download partner," stated Robert Zarrow, Ecliptek Vice President, Global Customer Support. "Their innovative search capabilities and extensive data base offer a valuable free tool to people needing components, like frequency control products."

In addition to implementing the Data Download program with the majority of its Authorized Distributors, Ecliptek has aligned itself with the leading information aggregators and documentation collection companies serving the electronic component industry. This automated data transfer process provides the most accurate and timely information available direct from the manufacturer while eliminating the need for data mining or manual entry.

"OemsCart has joined with Ecliptek's Data Download recipients which enables OemsCart users to get Ecliptek's real time data on inventory and parts information" said Oemscart Director Srinivas.

OemsCart site provides its users with optimized Datasheet and Inventory search tools. For Ecliptek part numbers, OemsCart will display a direct link to a part number specific PDF data sheet generated interactively by Ecliptek's web servers.
